Forecast for Sunday 29 May 2022

Weather: Largely clear skies through the early hours of Sunday but with the risk of some shallow mist and fog patches forming in valleys, although quick to clear once the sun rises. Cloud building through the morning, leading to some hazy sunshine but also the risk of occasional showers, perhaps heavy at times. The showers easing off into the evening with some clear periods developing.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: 90% in the early hours and into the evening, falling to 70% during the day.

Low Cloud and visibility: Cloud occasionally obscuring routes above 500m, most likely in association with showers, but otherwise mainly above summit level. Showers will also reduce visibility for a time. Otherwise very good visibility is expected.

Meteorologist's View

Overall, a nice day to be out on the hills, but be prepared for quick changes in conditions should showers pass over.

Forecast for Monday 30 May 2022

Weather: A mixture of clear spells and isolated showers to begin the day. The cloud then becoming more widespread through the morning, though some bright spells are still possible. The risk of showers continues through the day, some of which may be heavy in the afternoon. Staying rather cloudy into the evening and night.

Maximum wind: 10mph westerly winds on the summits.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: 70% through the day.

Low Cloud and visibility: Cloud largely above the summits but may temporarily fall to 500m, often in connection with any showers, which will obscure higher routes. Good visibility is otherwise expected outside of any rain.

Temperature: Valleys: Plus 6 Celsius, rising to plus 14 Celsius.
At 800m: Plus 1 Celsius, rising to plus 3 Celsius.
Freezing level: Just above the summits.

Tuesday	A chilly start for sheltered areas. A mixture of bright spells and further showers with an increased chance of these being heavy at times, also with a risk of thunder and hail. Gentle southwesterly winds on the summits. Freezing level near or just above the summits.
Wednesday	Another day of sunny spells and further occasional showers, again potentially heavy with an ongoing risk of hail and thunder. Valley temperatures rising closer to the seasonal average. Gentle and largely westerly winds, with freezing levels just above the summits.
Thursday	A largely fine and dry day with sunny intervals and gentle northerly winds. Some mist and fog patches possible early on. Freezing levels close to the summits initially and then rising above in the day.
